

PHILIPPINES

ARTISAN STORY

Through a Philippine co-op, which consists of village women and minister wives, we are able to provide authentic Fair Trade products from the Philippines.

Women artisans create handmade products while their husbands work in the fields. Women collect old milk cartons or magazine papers and turn them into bracelets. Proceeds are first used to give the women a sustainable income and the remaining profits is put into a fund for education and churches.

IMPACT

SUSTAINABLE JOBS

We empower artisans to set prices within the framework of the true costs of their labor, time, materials, sustainable growth, and related factors. Ensuring that income is distributed equitably at all times.

NO CHILD LABOR

Artisan families work hard to send their children to school. They create handcrafts from sustainable materials and we provide the global market they need to succeed.

COMMUNITY

With the imperative needs of their community, the more jewelry products they sell, in return generates funds to help them meet their most basic needs. Putting them on the path of improving the quality of their community.
